

KASHRUT

All foods brought into the United Synagogue of Hoboken buildings must be kosher. The best guarantee of the kosher status of a food product is the presence of a heksher - a symbol of Rabbinic supervision - on the food package. A partial list of hekshers can be found on page 5.

Note: The letter "K" by itself sometimes signifies reliable Kashrut supervision and sometimes does not. Please consult the Rabbi in such cases.

Certain foods are presumed to be kosher, and no rabbinical supervision is necessary.

Such foods include:

- fresh fruits and vegetables
- most canned or frozen fruits and juices (unless they contain grape juice)
- frozen vegetables (without sauces or additional ingredients)
- milk
- eggs

As a rule, food cooked in a private kitchen may not be brought into the synagogue. Exceptions are made for members of the congregation who maintain a strict level of kashrut in their home kitchens: please check with Rabbi Scheinberg if you wish to bring food from your home.

The following are some products with Kashrut supervision:

- Entenmann's
- Pepperidge Farm Cookies

A strict separation must be maintained between dairy foods and meat foods. Following a meat meal in the synagogue, dairy foods may not be served for at least three hours.

There is some debate in the Conservative Movement concerning the kashrut of cheese and wine. In the synagogue, however, we follow the stricter opinion on both of these issues. Cheese and wine must have a heksher to be brought into the synagogue.

For any questions on our kashrut standards, please contact Rabbi Scheinberg at Rabbi@HobokenSynagogue.org.

A list of kosher caterers in the area is provided below. A copy of kashrut certification will be required from any caterer not included on this list. Kashrut certification can be faxed to the USH office at: 201-659-2614

We provide this list as a convenience. We are not responsible for the quality of food or of service. Please contact the individual caterers to determine whether they deliver.

KOSHER CATERERS IN THE AREA

The following caterers have rabbinical supervision from Conservative and Orthodox rabbis. Some of these caterers might not be acceptable to some people from some Orthodox communities.

If you are anticipating Orthodox guests, we suggest that you speak with Rabbi Scheinberg about which caterers would be most widely accepted.
